Hammaraskjold And Nasser Discuss Peace Safeguards

New Incidents Reported Along Israeli Border

CAIRO, Egypt, April 29 (AP) — U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold conferred tonight with Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser and other high Egyptian officials on restoring peace to the troubled Arab-Israeli borders.

The meetings reportedly were devoted to discussion of frontier arrangements which might help prevent friction.

Egypt and Israel have agreed to a cease-fire but Hammarskjold is awaiting final pledges from Lebanon, Syria, and Jordan. These three countries have given tentative pledges to observe a cease-fire.

New Incidents Reported
The U. N. secretary general met with Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi before talking with Nasser. As the conference proceeded, the first incidents in several days were reported along Israel's borders. As usual, accounts from the two sides differed.

Listing three incidents, an Israeli army spokesman in Jerusalem said an Israeli soldier was killed and two wounded when their vehicle was blown up by a recently laid mine inside Israeli territory near Nir Izahk settlement close to the Gaza Strip.

Near Nahal Oz, an Israeli settler was kidnapped and carried across the demarcation line into the Gaza Strip by infiltrators who had crossed into the settlement fields, the Israeli spokesman charged.

Infiltrators Damage Well
He said the third incident was caused by infiltrators near the Jordan border who damaged a water well in the Lachish area. The Egyptian version of what appeared to be the alleged kidnapping was that an Israeli policeman, carrying a revolver and grenades, made a one-man invasion of the Gaza Strip and attacked Egyptian guards and farmers. An Egyptian military spokesman at Gaza said the Israeli was killed and that Egypt had complained to the Israel-Egypt Armistice Commission.

There was no indication these incidents would have any effect on Hammarskjold's mission.

More Aid Via UN Urged By Lodge

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., April 29 (AP)—Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. said today the present world situation requires the United States to channel a large share of its foreign aid through the United Nations.

In meeting the challenge of the new Soviet competition, he said, such a move would offer "some real advantages over a program sponsored by the United States alone."

"Multilateral aid," Lodge added, "offers a way to prevent the so-called auction which some are trying to promote between the United States and the U.S.S.R. as to which will spend the most in an underdeveloped country."

The chief U. S. delegate outlined his views in an exclusive statement when asked about the current reappraisal of the foreign aid program now under way in Washington. His statement was the strongest indication to date that the Eisenhower administration might divert substantial amounts of economic aid through the U. N. It had been known, however, the administration was concerned both by the stepped-up program of Communist economic aid and by increasing criticism of the U. S. bilateral aid program.

Dog Adopts Flock Of 43 Chicks

Penny, a toy bulldog owned by Mrs. Betty Hatfield, Yakima, Wash., had to have something to mother after she lost her five-pup litter, so she adopted a flock of 43 chicks. The 9-month-old Penny last winter raised a kitten and tried to mother a prairie chicken but the fowl resisted the dog's friendly attentions.

Graham Defense Will Seek Plane Wreckage Tests

DENVER, April 29 (AP)—An attorney defending John Gilbert Graham said today he will ask that a chemist be allowed to examine the wreckage of an airliner Graham—in confessions he maintains are false—admitted dynamiting. The crash cost 44 lives.

The lawyer, John J. Gibbons, disclosed the plan after inspecting wreckage of the United Air Lines DC6B at a Denver warehouse. Some parts of the plane have been reconstructed by fitting pieces together.

Confessions Repudiated
Confessions—one oral and one written—said by the FBI to have been made by Graham have been termed false by the defendant. He testified in absence of the jury trying him on a murder charge that he falsely admitted placing a dynamite time bomb on the plane because the FBI threatened to arrest his wife.

Gibbons said he would request tomorrow a chemist for the defense be allowed to examine the wreckage to determine "what caused the explosion." Gibbons did not elaborate.

Dynamite Caused Blast
J. William Magee of Washington, assistant chief of the FBI physics and chemistry laboratory, testified Friday that "residues" found on the wreckage were compounds resulting from a dynamite explosion and that dynamite caused the blast near Longmont, Colo., Nov. 1.

Graham is charged with murder in the death of his mother, Mrs. Daisy E. King, who boarded the plane at Denver bound for Anchorage, Alaska.

Today's Chuckle

A tramp knocked at the door of an English inn called "George and the Dragon." A woman answered and he asked for a bite to eat.

"No," she yelled and slammed the door.

A few minutes later he knocked again. The woman reappeared. "Now," said the tramp, "could I have a few words with George?"

High School Student Poll Won By Ike In Landslide

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., April 29 (AP)—President Eisenhower is a landslide winner in a nationwide presidential preference poll of nearly 450,000 senior and junior high school students, Wesleyan University, sponsor of the vote, announced today.

The President received 58.6 percent of the total vote, and had majorities in all but five states.

Adlai Stevenson topped the Democratic vote, leading Sen. Estes Kefauver, of Tennessee, in 34 states and polling a total of 83,130 votes to the senator's 74,900.

Vice President Nixon led a long list of write-in choices, followed closely by Gov. Averell Harriman

SNAKE IN BATHTUB "Paralyzes" Youth

ST. LOUIS, April 29 (AP)—William F. Power, 19, had finished taking a bath in his suburban Lemay home yesterday.

He pulled the plug from the drain and a snake popped out of the opening. It started swimming around in the water.

"I was just paralyzed," said Power.

The snake bit him on the big toe of his right foot when he moved to get out of the tub. Power fished the snake out of the water and put it in a goldfish bowl. It was about 18 inches long but Power said it "looked about 10 feet long when I first saw it."

Hotel Dynamite Blasts Kill One

CHICAGO, April 29 (AP)—Two dynamite explosions ripped basement areas of a small South Side hotel early today, killing the hotel janitor and injuring three other persons.

Police and fire officials ordered the New Market Hotel at 1615 Blue Island Ave. evacuated after the blasts because of structural damage to the four-story brick building. It housed about 50 persons.

The janitor, Albert Ziemba, 58, was killed by the explosion directly under his first-floor room. The other explosion occurred in another part of the basement.

Two guests and the desk clerk were treated for shock.

Sgt. Drew Brown of the police bomb squad said six sticks of dynamite or "some other nitro derivative" probably were used in one explosion which gouged a two-foot-deep crater through the basement's concrete floor.

A second explosion, about 30 seconds later, showered a police squad car with debris. Sgt. Francis Flanagan, who was in the car said he had sped to the hotel after hearing the first explosion from two blocks away. Flanagan was not injured.

Troubling Race Issue Dominates 'Bama Primary

MONTGOMERY, Ala., April 29 (AP)—Democrats in Alabama vote Tuesday in a primary election dominated by the troubling segregation issue in a background of unrest and violence.

They will elect 52 delegates to the Democratic National convention, along with a national committeeman and committeewoman, and nominate candidates for Congress, presidential elector and several state and district offices.

A runoff will be held May 29 for candidates who fail to get a majority of the votes in Tuesday's balloting.

Folsom Under Fire
The racial controversy has centered principally around Gov. James E. Folsom and his campaign for national committeeman. Critics have accused the governor of a lukewarm if not antagonistic attitude toward segregation.

It has figured prominently, too, in the running for convention delegate. The Prosegregation Assn. of Alabama Citizens Councils weeks ago challenged the candidates to "stand up and be counted" on the racial issue and virtually all of those who replied to the questionnaire pledged themselves to fight against integration.

The delegates will go to the convention officially unpledged and each will have one-half vote.

Two Oppose Folsom
Folsom, who has vetoed or refused to sign all but one of the series of segregation bills passed by the Legislature in the past year, is one of the three candidates running for a place on the Democratic National Committee. His opponents are State Rep. C. W. McKay Jr. of Talladega and Roy D. McCord of Gadsden.

McKay, author of the nullification resolution by which the Legislature sought to set aside the Supreme Court's school integration decision, has led the attack on the governor's racial policies.

Seven Die In Head-On Crash Of Two Cars

ELAND, Wis., April 29 (AP)—A head-on automobile crash took the lives of seven persons and critically injured two others early today near this tiny community in central Wisconsin.

Shawano County Traffic Chief Edward W. Bahr said three were killed instantly and the other four died shortly afterward in a hospital at Antigo.

He identified the dead as: Mrs. Margie Wilhelm, 20, of Birnamwood; her son, Glenn Jr., 3 months, and her daughter, Mary Ann, 3.

Norman V. Korth, 25, of Bowler, his sons, Michael, 3 months, and Reinhold, 4.

Harold E. Beckwith, 20, of Wittenberg.

GOP Protests Blast At WOCs As 'Low Blow'

Demo Report Says Businessmen Used Posts For Self-Gain

WASHINGTON, April 29 (AP)—A Democratic-controlled House subcommittee said today some businessmen exploited unpaid federal posts to help their own industries. It accused the Commerce Department of trying to hinder an investigation.

These findings drew a vigorous dissent from Republican members of the House Judiciary Committee's Antitrust Subcommittee. They accused the Democrats of "sheer cynicism" in making what they called "a blanket indictment of the integrity of the business and industrial community."

The conflicting reports provoked a sharp exchange of statements between Chairman Celler (D-N.Y.) and Rep. Keating of New York, the senior Republican member.

"Blueprint For Disaster"
Keating said the Democratic majority report "is not just a low blow at patriotic businessmen" but "a blueprint for disaster." He said it was written with a pen that "drips with venom."

Celler replied that Keating was fighting "a desperate rear-guard action to protect Secretary of Commerce Weeks."

Celler said Weeks "refused point blank to give us the information we sought."

The controversy centers on the Commerce Department's Business and Defense Services Administration, its various advisory groups of businessmen, and personnel on loan from private industry serving the department without compensation—WOCs.

The Democratic report declared that BDSA "has been used to advance throughout the government the cause of private interests."

WOC Services Vary
In the program for granting fast depreciation write-offs of defense production facilities for tax purposes, the report said, "WOC's head industrial divisions which make recommendations upon millions of dollars of tax amortization applications involving their own companies and competitors."

The Democrats said that "services WOCs perform for their companies vary from the extreme of taking official action on a company matter pending before the government to the more frequent practice of furnishing the employers with informative reports on governmental matters in which they have been involved."

Not "Love Thief," Martha Raye Says

MIAMI, Fla., April 29 (AP)—An attorney for comedienne Martha Raye said today the actress was "completely shocked" by alienation of affection charges made against her by a Westport, Conn., woman.

Mrs. Barbara Ann O'Shea, 20, mother of a 14-day-old child, yesterday charged Miss Raye with alienating the affections of her husband, Robert, 29.

The suit, asking $50,000 damages, was filed in Superior Court, Bridgeport, Conn., attaching the Westport home of the actress.

Mrs. O'Shea contends Miss Raye showered her policeman husband "with money and costly gifts" while he served as Miss Raye's bodyguard.

The actress' attorney, Miss Shirley Woolf, said in a statement: "Miss Raye is completely shocked at this totally unexpected action. She has never had any romantic liaison with Mr. O'Shea."

"Mr. (Nick) Condos, her manager, hired for her bodyguards. She has never had any romance with any of the employees."

Long-Range H-Bomb Missile Is Certainty, Air Force Discloses

INDICTED — Stock broker Walter F. Tallier, head of a Jersey City, N. J., firm, is shown after he had been indicted by a federal grand jury in Brooklyn, N. Y., on charges of defrauding thousands of clients in a $15,000,000 uranium stock swindle. It was charged that Tallier bought cent-a-share stock and manipulated the price up to $1.87.

WASHINGTON, April 29 (AP)—The Air Force has told Congress that hydrogen bombs "light and handy enough" to be packed into the warheads of ocean-spanning missiles are a certainty.

This official disclosure of what was described as a major scientific breakthrough was made in testimony before a House Appropriations Subcommittee on Air Force Affairs by Maj. Gen. S. R. Brentnall, assistant chief of staff for guided missiles.

In the testimony made public today, Brentnall said that the "advent of lightweight high-yield warheads" had simplified many technical problems and "insured that thermonuclear explosives would be light and handy enough to be carried by long-range missiles of reasonable size."

Old Problem Solved
The general said the Air Force had been held back in the development of long range missiles for many years because the warheads had to be of such large size to hold the nuclear payload that guidance, propulsion and design problems were beyond the capabilities of engineers.

In this connection it was recalled that Gen. Nathan F. Twining, the Air Force chief of staff, said last Wednesday that it will be "a long time" until the intercontinental ballistic missile is "reliable enough to replace other weapons systems."

Twining spoke two days after the Soviet Communist party chief, Nikita Khrushchev, told an audience in Kharkov that Russia soon would have an intercontinental missile.

Soviet Prompt U. S. Speedup
The Air Force testimony made public today contained an acknowledgment that intelligence reports of Russian progress in long range bombers and missiles had prompted a speedup in development and production of advanced defensive missiles such as Talos and Bomarc.

Both of these ground-to-air missiles are now being procured on an accelerated basis, the Air Force said, adding that they will provide a "kill capability" several times greater than that of earlier antiaircraft missiles and will be able to intercept raiding craft at considerable distances from American cities.

In his report, Bricker listed what he called "heretofore secret financial data" from the files of the Federal Communications Commission, which he said showed that in 1954 NBC and CBS made big profits while their competitors, American Broadcasting Co. and Dumont, showed losses. At the same time, he said, big TV stations favored by CBS and NBC made huge profits while many small stations lost.

The senator's assertions drew a reply from Frank Stanton, president of CBS.

Stanton said Bricker is charging the TV networks with monopoly "to advance his long dormant bill designed to regulate networks." He said that by using only profit figures Bricker "has presented a grossly inaccurate picture."

"By no accepted standards does CBS have anything even approaching monopoly in the television broadcasting business," Stanton said.

British Concerned As Soviets Play Up B&K Visit As Red Diplomatic Success

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

LONDON, April 29 (AP)—Moscow's press is playing up the Bulgarian-Khrushchev visit to London as a brilliant Soviet diplomatic success.

The Russian tone is arousing some soul-searching second thoughts in Britain.

While it is generally felt here that Prime Minister Eden came off best in the 10-day talks, there appears to be some worry that the British advantage is a temporary one. These are among the reasons:

1. The Moscow press and radio hinted there is a price tag attached to the offer of Soviet assistance in cooling down the boiling Middle East crisis.

2. Moscow is repeating over and over its great satisfaction that the British have signed a document embodying the famous "five principles" for international peace so heavily plugged by the Russians and Chinese in Asia in the last two years.

3. The Moscow press is telling the Soviet public that a Russian success in London was brought about by heads of a nation ardently devoted to a Leninist policy. Such a policy is based upon a conviction that any means justifies the end—the world victory of communism.

Suspensions on the Middle East offer are aroused by a passage from Pravda, the official Communist party newspaper, such as this: "The representatives of the Soviet Union and the United Kingdom also discussed the Middle

Butler Assails GOP 'Fumbling'

WASHINGTON, April 29 (AP)—Paul M. Butler, national Democratic chairman, said tonight his party will concentrate during the presidential election campaign on what he termed the "failure and fumbling" of the Eisenhower administration but also "will focus our guns" on Vice President Nixon.

In a television interview—NBC—"Meet the Press"—Butler accused the administration of trying to "take credit for everything."

Administration spokesmen, he said, have given no credit, for instance, to labor unions which have bargained to bring new financial rewards to working people.

"The administration has done nothing to improve the picture of public health," said Butler. "It has reduced appropriations time after time."

Further, he added, the cost of living has been "going up constantly" despite promises of the Republicans in 1952 to halt it.

11, Including Nine Rebels, Die In Battle

Military Base East Of Havana Attacked By About 100 Men

HAVANA, Cuba, April 29 (AP)—About 100 rebels attacked an army barracks east of Havana today in a revolt reported crushed within three hours.

At least nine rebels and two soldiers were killed, said reports from the scene at Matanzas, 60 miles east of Havana. Three soldiers and an undetermined number of rebels were wounded.

Col. Pilar Garcia, military commander at Matanzas, told The Associated Press by telephone the battle was over except for the mopping up.

"The attackers were exterminated at the side of their machine guns," Garcia said.

Garcia reported the attackers rode up to Goucuria army barracks in blue shirts and gray pants similar to army uniforms. They were in six trucks.

Guards sounded an alert and a short, vicious battle was joined, Garcia said. None of the attackers was able to force his way into the military base, he added.

"Up to now," Garcia said, "we have picked up nine bodies but the mopping up operation is still under way. Three soldiers were wounded."

He identified one of the dead as Reinel Garcia, who was believed to have led the attack.

Regular army troops were in command of two bridges across the San Juan River which separates Matanzas from the Goucuria military base.

Army planes circled over Matanzas and the army base but there was no indication of air action.

Reliable sources said Fidel Castro, who led a similar uprising in 1953, may have led the revolt. Castro is considered a lieutenant of former President Carlos Prío Socarras.

Batista overthrew Prío Socarras in a bloodless revolt in March of 1953. Prío Socarras returned from exile in the United States earlier this year. It was reported Prío Socarras was arrested when news of the uprising reached Havana.

Castro led an attack on the army barracks at Santiago de Cuba in July of 1953. He was sentenced to 12 years in prison. He was pardoned last year in Batista's general amnesty and left for Mexico.

There have been recurrent reports that Castro had slipped back into Cuba.

'Fantastic' Theft Story Is Verified

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., April 29 (AP)—Raiding officers today recovered $95,000 which they said was part of $300,000 loot taken in a Houston burglary last Sunday.

The officers made the raid as the result of the efforts of a sports writer, Dan Cook, to solve the burglary and get his "big story." Cook himself was charged with burglary last Wednesday after going to Houston police with a tale that they called "fantastic."

Harvey Marley, 31, of San Antonio and R. E. Hamlett, 31, of Houston were charged with burglary in a Houston Justice Court just before four Houston detectives and two Texas rangers joined in the raid.

The officers said they had been informed that $300,000 in cash and negotiable securities had been stolen from Paul Denny.

Cook, whose boxing column appears in the San Antonio Express, and Jimmy Parks, San Antonio boxing promoter, were charged in Houston with the armed robbery of Hamlett and Jimmy Hicks, an automobile dealer.

Cook and Parks went to Houston on a tip to Cook that a job as "big as the Brink's holdup" had been staged there. Cook was given the name of Hamlett and his automobile license number.

When Cook and Parks arrived they went to the homes of both Hicks and Hamlett, posing as police officers. Cook said he and Parks roughed up the pair in order to find out where Hamlett had hidden the money.

When Cook took $3,055 to Houston Police Chief Jack Heard, he was arrested and charged along with Parks for robbery by firearms. Heard and reporters in Houston, and Cook himself, termed his story "pretty fantastic."

However, after the arrest of Marley and Hamlett today, Houston authorities and San Antonio Sheriff Owen Kilday, who was asked to participate, agreed that Cook's story was true.

George Says 'Frustration' Spurs New Soviet Tactics

WASHINGTON, April 29 (AP)—Sen. George (D-Ga.) pictured Russia today as being spurred by "social frustration" into adopting new policies which he said now call for revision of the American foreign aid program.

George, who heads the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said he regards the Soviets' declared willingness to join in a worldwide embargo on arms shipments to the Middle East as a symptom of Russian desire to gain a seat at the "head table" of world powers.

While he said he was not prepared to accept the embargo proposal at its face value at this time, he added that "the fact that they are even looking in that direction represents some advance."

"It seems to me," he said, "that the Soviets are suffering from a sense of social ostracism. They feel a great social frustration because they are not quite welcome at the head table with the leaders of the West."

"What they appear to be driving at is a closer association with the leading powers of the world and toward a more cordial social status through which they can enlarge their trade and commerce."

"As I judge it, that is their program for the moment although I have no doubt that they still hold as their main objective eventual domination of the world."

About 2,500,000 people now live in mobile homes. This house trailer population is enough to make it the third largest U. S. city, outranked only by New York and Chicago.

300 File From Church After Fire Breaks Out

NORWICH, Conn., April 29 (AP)—Fire destroyed the Sacred Heart church today, driving 300 worshippers from an early morning Mass.

A fireman and a policeman suffered minor injuries.

The damage was estimated at $500,000 by the Rev. Maurice Sullivan, curate, and Deputy Fire Chief William Laroche. They estimated the replacement cost at a million dollars.

The blaze, of undetermined origin, apparently began in the basement of a chapel adjacent to the high altar.

Sexton Michael LaMothe saw smoke coming through the floor of the robing room next to the altar.

He notified the Rev. Rene Messier, who was celebrating Mass, and Father Messier quietly advised the congregation to leave the building. There was no confusion.

Youngster Freed From Grease Can

BALTIMORE, April 29 (AP)—Six-year-old Steven Timchula was trapped — he's not saying how — inside an old grease can in an East Baltimore alley last night.

Would-be rescuers tried to pull him out, but the boy was stuck so he could hardly move. Some tried turning the 25-gallon can upside down—still no luck.

Then firemen were summoned. They hacked open the can and Steven wobbled free, hardly able to stand on his numbed legs.

But Steven soon regained his composure. He refused hospital treatment and wouldn't say how he got in his predicament. And for good measure, he gave the can a solid kick.

Japanese Protest

TOKYO, April 29 (AP)—Seven Sunakawa villagers opposing condemnation of their land for expansion of a U. S. air base held a Buddhist ceremony and "cremated" final eviction notices. A priest officiated and a youth association chanted labor songs.

Supreme Court "Experience" Law Proposed

WASHINGTON, April 29 (AP)—Sen. Smathers (D-Fla.) proposed today that Congress pass a law requiring that all future appointees to the Supreme Court have at least five years of prior experience on the bench.

He said Supreme Court members should be trained and experienced jurists, and that "men who wish to determine policy and legislate should seek endorsement of their views from the people by running for office."

In his statement, Smathers made no reference to the Supreme Court's unanimous 1954 decision outlawing segregation in public schools, but the bill he proposed seemed to reflect the protests he and other Southerners have made against this and other recent rulings of the court.

Smathers was among 101 Southern Congress members who issued a manifesto attacking the court's decision in the school case as an abuse of judicial power and pledging to use all lawful means to upset it.

Smathers said that when the Senate meets tomorrow noon, he will introduce a bill to require five years of court experience—on the federal bench or a state supreme court—for all future Supreme Court justices.

March Traffic Death Toll Breaks Record

CHICAGO, April 29 (AP)—The National Safety Council said today that a "traffic accident emergency" exists in the United States following the highest March death toll in history.

If the present trend continues, the council figured, the all-time record of 39,969 deaths in a single year will be surpassed in 1956.

The number of deaths on the nation's streets and highways in March was placed at 2,960 — 320 more than March 1955 and 94 above the previous record of 2,866 for the month, set in 1937.

This was the 13th consecutive month of increased traffic deaths and pushed the toll for the first three months of this year to 8,590, second highest first quarter total on record. The greatest number of fatalities ever counted in the first quarter of a year was 8,615 in 1937.

The most dangerous seat in an auto is to the right of the driver. More than 80 per cent of auto accident injuries are sustained there.

Boy Electrocuted After Acrobatics On 90-Foot Tower

GLEN BURNIE, Md., April 29 (AP)—A 17-year-old South Baltimore youth was electrocuted early today as he descended from a high voltage transmission tower after performing acrobatics some 81 feet above the ground.

The victim was identified by Anne Arundel County police as Frank P. Krug. He was pronounced dead by electrocution by Dr. Gustave H. Faubert, county medical examiner.

Krug had twice climbed the 90-foot tower. The first time he was talking into coming down by Raymond Montgomery, who made the perilous climb to converse with his friend.

Charles Thompson, 19, said he was watching Krug start to descend after the second climb.

"All of a sudden," he said, "a ball of fire just busted out and he fell to the ground."

Thompson and three others applied artificial respiration for more than 30 minutes before the body was taken to the Glenn Burnie fire company.

Krug's acrobatics followed an all-night hay ride which wound up on a beach front near Marley Creek. Witnesses said he was "hanging by his feet... walking and climbing all around."

"We yelled to him to come down," Thompson said, "but he called us 'chicken.' He was showing off."

When someone's counting on you...
you can count on life insurance

One of the most exciting experiences for any family is buying a home. It is probably the biggest purchase most families ever make. But along with the satisfaction of a new home come new responsibilities.

Fortunately, your life insurance helps you meet these responsibilities with greater confidence. One of the purposes for which you can use life insurance is to guarantee payment of your mortgage in full—should you not live to complete the installment payments. Many homes are now "free and clear" because life insurance money was available to cancel the mortgage.

This is one of the reasons why you can count on life insurance... and why it is America's most widely used form of thrift.

If you would like more information about how your life insurance can guarantee payment of your mortgage, the best person to advise you is your own life insurance agent.

You will also find helpful suggestions in the new booklet, Your Life Insurance—and How to Use It. It explains how policies can be used for mortgage protection, educational purposes, family protection and your own retirement. Keeping Up With Hollywood by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, April 29 (INS)—Talk about storming the box-office! Jimmy Stewart and Audie Murphy are to be teamed by Universal-International in Norman Fox's powerful western of Montana, "Night Passage"—and I can hear the exhibitors cheering boss Ed Muhl for this bonanza.

The two biggest grossing pictures in the history of the studio are Jimmy Stewart's "The Glenn Miller Story" and war hero Audie Murphy's "To Hell And Back." Put those boys together—and it's as good as a gold strike.

Aaron Rosenberg, producer of the "Miller" and Murphy hits, will again be in the driver's seat for "Night Passage," which is, indeed, the meeting of the box office champs! It'll roll this fall as one of U-I's—or any other studio's biggest.

The glamorous Swede, Anita Ekberg, will offer a cook's tour for all those who see her in "Hollywood Or Bust" with Martin and Lewis. Anita will wear Edith Head's designed clothes appropriate to all the Hollywood show places. When she's at Santa Anita she'll be dressed in an outfit patterned after the jockey clothes, at the Hollywood Bowl as Valerie, at the Chinese Theatre in a Chinese costume.

She'll also be seen at all the big hotels, and all the places that the visiting firemen want to see. This is a personal idea of Hal Wallis, and mighty clever, I call it. Anita plays herself of course.

I am very glad that Anne Baxter is not seeking to take the $14,000 house away from John Hodiak's parents. The suit is a technical one because John left no will, and under the law the house would go to his and Anne's 5-year-old daughter Katrina. Anne has had a guardian appointed for the little girl and is cooperating to see that the parents get the house which her attorney, Gordon Youngman, says she wants them to have.

I was surprised when he told me it was a technical suit. The parents of Hodiak had stated that they had put their own money into the house in repairs and improvements, and they were apparently very worried.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: The day Barbara Rush's divorce from Jeff Hunter became final she fainted on the set—not from emotion but from dieting.

Ethel Merman and Robert Six flew in for two days, and Ethel's favorite director Walter Lang, and favorite director's wife Fields, gave a small dinner for them.

The smiles of Dorothy Malone are all in the direction of Felix Ford, actor protégé of John Ford. The very bright Kathy Grant is booked to lecture to the drama class at the University of Arizona while she is on location in Tucson.

Liz Taylor stopped by herself at the LUAU to pick up dinner for two—Mike Wilding and Mrs. Wilding.

The paying customers at Sportsman's Lodge heard Rory Calhoun sing when his friend, pianist Phil Moody took over the piano.

Four writers are working with Judy Garland for her Palladium sketch.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

An Attractive Face Can Be Acquired (1)

There isn't a woman in the world who is hopelessly unattractive. The secret is to learn how to make the most of yourself and have the desire to be attractive. That means really knowing yourself. I bet if I asked you, not many of you could accurately tell me what shape face you have. And, yet this is fundamental information and the key to what make-up and hairdo you should use and what hat will be most becoming.

Examine your face now—what shape would you say it is? To be accurate, draw a frame about 6" x 9" with soap on your bathroom or bedroom door mirror. "Skin" your hair back, and then be sure and stand until your head is enclosed in the "frame." Take a look at yourself and then compare your answer with the diagrams in today's illustration.

1. OVAL—Your face forms a perfect ellipse inside the frame. Your forehead is slightly wider than your chin. Lucky you, with the "ideal" face. You can wear any hair style and are the only type that can successfully wear a center part.

2. ROUND—Your contours form a circle in contradiction to every line of the frame. It is not too much longer than it is broad. Don't wear a cupid shape mouth, round curls, round spotty rouge application or any circular patterns.

3. SQUARE—The line of your face follows the frame, but falls short of it in length. Your jawbone has an angular form and you have a square chin. To soften any angular outlines or heavy-jawed look, use a dip in the forehead when selecting a new hairdo. Define the lips and eyebrows. No small mouth for you—a full jaw

Railsplitters Have Fun With Carpet Court

Judge Gets Caught In His Own Trap

PIEDMONT — Chief Judge Michael Laffey and Raymond Lee, chairman of the Railsplitters (bearded men) drew sentences at the Carpet Court Friday evening where members of the Railsplitters were tried for violations of the organization which they were charged with.

Birds That Prey On Vacationists

As the tourist season begins to pick up momentum and hundreds of thousands of Americans begin planning their vacations, another segment of society is making preparations for what many predict will be the greatest tourist season in history.

To this latter group summer months are among their busiest working periods, for they are the confidence men and women who find vacation spending produces rich pluckings. They know that some unexplainable incongruity in human nature transforms even the most frugal into devil-may-care spendthrifts once they enter the open highway.

Confidence games are by no means just a seasonal pastime, but exist anywhere money changes hands. However, during the Christmas and vacation seasons these parasites are aided by the disarming feelings of exuberance and goodwill which prevail.

Not all the victims of confidence men are individuals. Many of these leeches prefer to strike at transportation companies and resort hotels, knowing that many such businesses are too busy during the summer season to track down thieves, particularly when the loss is small.

One of the prime targets of these fast-talking crooks is the railroad. But what these thieves may not know is that railroad police have a remarkable record of convicting 98 per cent of those they arrest.

Comic operas have portrayed time and again the gimmick of the penniless patron who, after he has consumed a hearty meal, discovers to the horror of himself and the management an obnoxious looking bug in his soup. Naturally, he receives no bill. Confidence men are not content with free passage, however. After employing several variations of this same trick, such as finding a carefully planted mouse in a berth or falling from an upper berth and dislocating a trick shoulder, the confidence man threatens to sue and settles for a nuisance fee.

The amount involved is never enough to attract too much attention, but is sufficient to maintain the thief until his next escapade. Every vacationer should beware of these quick-buck artists, for even if not directly involved the legitimate customer helps pay the bill incurred by confidence men.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Too Excited

Federal Judge W. D. Murray of Montana, son of Senator James Murray, got himself quite excited over a news release issued by the FBI and relating to one, John Cyril Hellman, who was stated in the news release to be "one of the leading Communists in Montana and Idaho." Judge Murray said of this:

"... I read in the paper a statement issued by J. Edgar Hoover as to certain facts, or at least what he claims to be facts, with reference to this case. I can only say that such statements by the director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation are wrong, they are not in accord with the American principle of trial in a court, and I condemn in the strongest terms possible the issuance of statements by police officials or investigating officers with reference to the facts of a case, presenting them to the public in an effort, apparently, to try the case outside of court. If this case had been in my division, immediately that I saw such a statement, Mr. Hoover and his agents would have been called before me to account for such un-American, unfair tactics, and so, I say to you, and to all the public that Mr. Hoover's statements as to facts are not before this court, and the court makes no decision upon anything Mr. Hoover may believe, whether they be true or not. The place to present those facts is in court, and let him be advised of it."

This then is a new doctrine of secrecy, namely, that when an arrest is made, the arresting agency should make no statement that an arrest has been made and for what reasons. According to Judge Murray, arrests should be of the nature of letters de cachet, in secret.

Hellman was arrested at 7:04 a. m. in Butte, Mont. The announcement of his arrest was made in Washington, D. C., at 9:12 a. m., about eight minutes after the arrest, the difference in time between Washington and Butte being two hours.

Hellman was the 139th person indicted under the Smith Act and each time such an arrest or any other arrest is made by the FBI an announcement of the facts is made, the attitude of the agency and its director, J. Edgar Hoover being that it is not engaged in secret arrests.

It would appear from Judge Murray's complaint, which was interpolated in his decision dealing with a motion to reduce bail, that his objection is to matters being discussed outside the courtroom which should be discussed only in the courtroom.

But a statement that an arrest has been made and for what reason, to the press, is normal procedure in the United States and is sanctioned by tradition and public opinion.

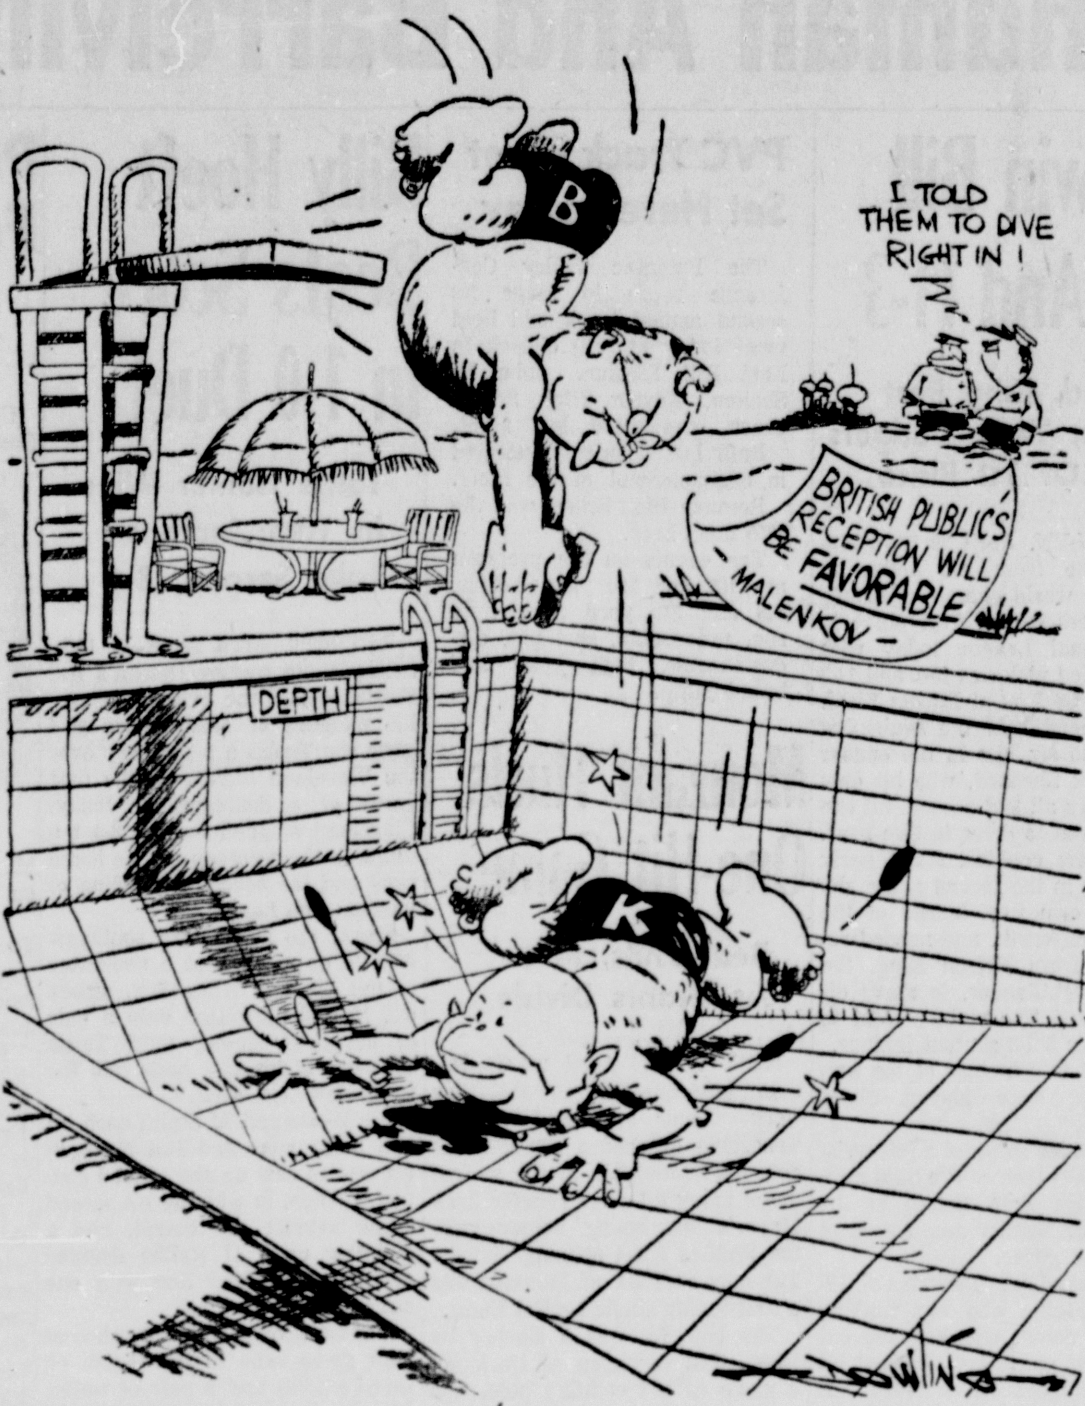

The FBI release simply stated among other things: "Hellman was arrested on the basis of a federal warrant issued in Great Falls, Mont., April 4, 1956. He is charged with violation of the membership section of the Smith Act which makes it illegal to be a member of the Communist party knowing its aim to be the overthrow of the United States Government by force and violence. The penalties for this violation are a fine of not more than $10,000 or imprisonment for not more than 10 years, or both."

It is unbelievable that Judge Murray found this objectionable. Would he, Judge Murray, have made a similar complaint if the arrested person were a kidnapper or an extortionist or a counterfeiter or any criminal except a Communist? Yet, Hellman is reported to have said in a speech in 1951 that the Korean conflict was "indisputable murder on the part of the United States." Without reflecting upon Judge Murray's integrity, it would appear that as long as the Smith Act is the law of the land, procedures concerning arrests under it should be handled like any others.

There is a continuing tendency in this country in favor of secrecy—secrecy about the conduct of government, secrecy about the conduct of foreign relations, secrecy about government documents. What Judge Murray is discussing is secrecy of arrests, a very dangerous procedure, antagonistic to the Constitution, particularly the 4th, 5th, 6th, 8th and 14th Amendments, all of which deal with the rights of persons under the law and all of which are antagonistic to the concept of secrecy in relationship to those rights. It would seem that the judge talked too quickly.

How's The Trip?

Democrats Play Guessing Game About Nominee

WASHINGTON

In recent days all the principal Democratic candidates and their backers and strategists have been in Washington, and they have all been playing the ancient parlor game of second-guessing the convention. Perhaps it is a futile occupation. But it is interesting, and may be significant, that there is a surprising measure of agreement among all concerned—up to a point.

It is agreed, for example, that Adlai Stevenson will be way out in front again if he wins the Florida and California primaries. But there is also a considerable measure of agreement on the shape the convention is likely to take if the opposite happens, and Estes Kefauver again trips Stevenson in the forthcoming primaries.

Would Split Convention

First, it is agreed that Kefauver will then have an almost unarguable claim to a place on the ticket. Second, it is agreed that the Kefauver bloc and the Southern bloc will control between them something like half the delegate votes, with Kefauver holding a bit over a quarter of the total, and the Southerners a bit less than a quarter.

Third, it is agreed that Kefauver and the Southerners will never get together to dictate the outcome—the two blocs are mutually irreconcilable. Thus the convention will be split in two.

One part will consist of the disciplined, stubborn, and mutually hostile Kefauver and Southern blocs, prepared to hang on to the bitter end. The second part will consist of a shifting, unstable, and amorphous mass—the loyal Stevenson following, W. Averell Harriman's bloc centered on New York state, a bloc favoring Missouri's Sen. Stuart Symington, plus the favorite sons like Michigan's G. Mennen Williams and Ohio's Frank Lausche.

Somehow, by the mysterious process which operate in the unique American convention system, the two parts must interlock to form a majority. No one can possibly predict how this may be done. But the players of the parlor game speculate most about three possible combinations—Stevenson plus Kefauver, Harriman plus Kefauver, and Symington plus the South.

Second Spot For Estes

Stevenson backers profess confidence that Minnesota taught both Stevenson and his admirers a needed lesson, and that he will win in both forthcoming primaries. But Stevenson himself has passed the word that he is in the fight to the last ballot, come what may in Florida and California. Even if there are further primary disasters, the Stevensons contend, it will become apparent at the convention that no other candidate can unite the party. A Stevenson-Kefauver ticket will then emerge as the only logical way out. Kefauver is younger than Stevenson, and as second man on the ticket he would be heir apparent. A convention majority simply does not exist for Kefauver, and he will take second place rather than nothing if offered the choice at the strategic moment.

So the argument runs in the Stevenson camp. In the Harriman camp it runs precisely the same way, as far as Kefauver is concerned. But the Harriman men also argue, not unexpectedly, that a Harriman-Kefauver combination

Helpful Tips If Your Children Are Going To Camp

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Every summer approximately 4 million boys and girls spend from one to eight weeks in camp. Since there are more than 12,000 camps in the United States, many parents find it difficult to select the one most suitable for their offspring. What should they look for? I am interested primarily in the health aspect but to be worth while, the camp also must provide a happy experience for the youngster.

Most children of school age do better on a scheduled program. The routine is uniform for all and awards are given for completing this or that project. This type is best for young campers who like assigned activities and want to be busy every minute of the day.

But some boys and girls are not stimulated by competition and bog down under regimentation. They have strong likes and dislikes and prefer less complicated programs. The nontraditional camp is better for this group. Here the counselor offers guidance in pursuits the youngster likes. This aspect of camping must be decided by the parents because they know their child best.

Regardless of junior's aptitudes and temperament, he will not have a good time unless he is healthy. Better camps are aware of this factor and insist upon a physical examination and detailed health history before accepting the applicant. They also have a physician or a nurse in residence or nearby and adhere to rigid standards of health, sanitation and safety.

The wise director realizes that an epidemic of food poisoning or typhoid will ruin his camp and undo the years of hard work required to establish a good reputation. There must be adequate provisions for baths and showers and at least one toilet for every 10 campers.

High priority ought to be given to the quality of the food and the manner in which it is processed and served. The camp also should have a good leisure time program and see to it that enough rest is obtained to guard against physical and emotional overstimulation.

Much of the success of the vacation depends upon the counselors who should be competent, experienced, and interesting. Good camps often hire college students 19 to 20 years old and those with a knowledge of child development and educational methods are preferred. The ideal ratio should not exceed one counselor to eight children.

The American Camping association, Bradford Woods, Martinsville, Ind., may be able to offer suggestions on camps.)

VISION AND BLONDES

G. B. writes: I have heard rumors that bleaching the hair is bad for the eyesight. Is this true?

REPLY

Not if the bleaching is done properly. An attractive blonde usually sharpens the eyesight of the oglers.

TIME TO EXERCISE

P. J. M. writes: When is it best to take exercise: Morning, noon, or night; before or after meals?

REPLY

Before meals is better but the time of day makes little difference.

ENLARGED KNUCKLES

L. E. writes: Will massage and heat help reduce big knuckles caused by arthritis?

REPLY

Yes, but some swelling and deformity may remain.

PRESSURE AND HEART ATTACKS

M. T. writes: A friend of mine, 68 years old, recently had a heart attack which he blamed on his high blood pressure. I always thought high blood pressure was responsible.

REPLY

The level of the blood pressure is not as important a cause of coronary thrombosis as is the state of the coronary arteries. In this respect, low blood pressure is not a guarantee against heart attacks of this type. But people with hypotension tend to have less wear and tear on their organs because they don't have the energy to overdo.

GULLET POCKET

T. G. writes: What would cause a sensation of fullness in the throat after eating? It feels as if part of the meal lodged there and after about four hours, the sensation disappears.

REPLY

A good possibility is esophageal diverticulum. This is a pocket in the gullet that fills with food and empties several hours later. The diagnosis is confirmed by X-ray.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

WASHINGTON — George Meany, who has been president of the combined AFL-CIO for less than six months, tomorrow faces one of the biggest tests of his career when he sits down opposite Dave Beck, czar of the Teamsters, for a showdown as to whether the biggest union in the world will respect AFL-CIO rules or bolt.

Meany has laid down the law that the Teamsters must quit playing footsie with the racket-ridden international longshoremens to whom Beck has offered a $400,000 loan, but which Meany has outlawed.

So one or the other, Beck or Meany, has got to give ground.

The test will be not only of the AFL-CIO's ability to hang together, but of George Meany personally. Labor leaders throughout the nation will be watching to see whether he stands up to Beck or whether he becomes another Bill Green, the kindly humanitarian president of the AFL who remained a benign figurehead while the unions dominated the AFL show.

Those who know Meany are betting on him. He has stood up to Beck before, has also stood up to the powerful, law-unto-himself John L. Lewis. Beck may even duck out on the meeting tomorrow. He says he's very "busy."

Meany is shrewd enough not to have a showdown immediately. So tomorrow's special meeting will probably result in referral to the regular meeting, of the AFL-CIO executive convention. In the end, however, those who know Meany know he is not going to give. And those who know Beck know that he is one of the toughest, shrewdest

By Drew Pearson

Beck's House And Furniture

Dave Beck is a boy who usually gets what he wants. When he doesn't get it he calls a strike or fires people.

That's why bad publicity makes him sore.

When word leaked out that the Teamsters international board had voted to buy his house in Seattle for $160,000, then let him live in it the rest of his life, Beck really got sore. He immediately fired his entire public relations staff.

Finally Eddie Cheyfitz, smart attorney and public relations expert who used to be with motion picture czar Eric Johnston, persuaded Beck to hire them back. He pointed out that firing his staff would only make his public relations worse.

What Beck didn't know was that one of his own international board had leaked the news of the house purchase. The Teamster who got credit for leaking was Tom Hickey of New York, now engaged in a knockdown, drag-out battle with John J. O'Rourke for control of the New York Teamsters.

The man who moved in the secrecy of the Teamsters Council to buy Beck's house was Sidney Brennan of Minneapolis, convicted under the Taft-Hartley Act for taking money from an employer to cross a picket line against a strike called by District 50.

After the Beck house purchase furor had died down, Beck hit the headlines again. This time the Teamsters international board voted secretly to buy Beck's furniture for upwards of $40,000, then loan it back to him until his death.

Once again the story leaked to the press, and once again Beck fired his public relations staff. This time Eddie Cheyfitz had already resigned as Beck's adviser. So the entire staff stayed fired.

NOTE — Just why Beck wanted to sell his house and furniture has aroused considerable speculation. Beck happens to have been under income-tax investigation, and one supposition is that he needed a capital gains tax deal on his house and furniture to permit him to pay up some back taxes. Beck is a part owner of the Grosvenor apartment house in Seattle and considered a wealthy man.

Control of Waterfront

Behind the showdown between

Beck and Meany is the burning ambition of Dave Beck to control the waterfront. This is an area where trucks load and unload, where the jurisdiction between truckers and longshoremens tends to merge. So Beck wants to merge the entire waterfront under him.

In 1934 Beck had a date with Joe Ryan, convicted ex-head of the Longshoremens, to bring the Teamsters and Longshoremens together.

Ryan got drunk and never kept the date. If he had kept it, Beck might be controlling the waterfronts of both East and West coasts today. For part of the proposed deal was to enure Harry Bridges out of the picture.

Today, Communist elements among the West Coast Longshoremens are reported ready to make a deal with Beck which would circumvent Bridges entirely.

Huge Teamster Kitty

Originally Beck and Meany were on the same side of the fence regarding the East Coast Longshoremens. Beck had urged Meany to oppose Joe Ryan's racket-ridden ILA and both lacked the rival AFL longshoremens. But when it lost out in the waterfront election, Beck deserted Meany and jumped in to support the old union with a proposed $400,000 loan out of the Teamsters' treasury.

Beck's union now has a membership of 1,400,000 teamsters. With that membership and the treasury that goes with it, Beck can tie up the transportation, and eventually the industry of the United States.

Beck has used his $400,000 treasury in an interesting manner. When Roy Fruehauf got into a fight with is reactionary brothers over control of his trailer business, Beck loaned Roy $1,500,000.

When the Montgomery Ward mail-order house got into a proxy battle with Louis Wolfson, Beck and Jim Hoffa used Teamster welfare funds to buy over a million dollars' worth of Montgomery Ward stock. This huge block of votes tipped the election of M-W Chairman Sewell Avery, who, despite his reactionary anti-labor background, came across with a new, improved labor contract for the Teamsters.

That is the kind of man George Meany sits down to bargain with regarding the first real threat to the combined AFL-CIO—if Beck turns up at the meeting.

Small Business And You

By Roger Babson

BABSON PARK, Mass. — I was recently asked what was the most important thing I had learned during my 50 years in active business. The answer is what New England's famous surgeon, Dr. William Warren Babson, once said to me: "Remember, Roger, that no two people are alike—what's food for one may be poison for another and vice versa." This was brought home to me only recently when reading in the Reader's Digest an article praising aspirin for arthritis.

After finishing my reading of the Digest, I picked up an Encyclopedia of Health, by J. I. Rodale of Emmaus, who has systematically collected what are recognized as the best opinions on a hundred physical ailments. This book lists aspirin as a very dangerous product, 50 million tablets of which are being consumed daily. I have great respect for Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt Wallace, editors of the Reader's Digest, but I wonder if they realize the tremendous risk they run as their circulation becomes bigger? My purpose, therefore, this week is to further the urge of my friend Ernest Gaunt, and appeal for a subsidy to the small publisher, the small businessman, and the unknown genius. These may be the hope of America, and not "big business," which assumes all people to be alike.

Education And Labor Unions

After spending many years and millions of dollars educating young people, I am convinced of the great importance of small colleges, small schools and classes. Figures may show that costs of so-called education may be decreased by consolidated schools, state universities, and other attempts at mass education. Having learned, however, that all young people are different and are entitled to different instruction, I have concluded that the solution is to teach young people to educate themselves. When the "do-it-yourself" movement extends to education, we will begin to get good results and at very much less expense.

The labor union movement is fulfilling a need in combating the misused power of employers; but it will some day break u, of its own weight, due to the inherent differences in people. Its present program of paying every workman in a certain group the same wage is against human nature. I forecast that for labor unions to succeed, they must recognize that workers are entitled to different wages, based upon their initiative, energy, intelligence, and other qualifications.

Should Be Encouraged

Some day the small businessman will have to be helped by a subsidy of some kind, especially to use for advertising. There is a demand for every product which has ever been found useful. More candles are sold today than ever before; more hard wood is sold for fireplaces; horses and sulkies for racing sell at higher prices today than ever. There are buyers awaiting every product and service, if the public only knew where to get them.

Therefore, let no small businessman get discouraged. As the Good Book says (see Ecclesiastes, 9th chapter, 11th verse): "The race is not to the swift, nor the battle to the strong." If America will do right, I have no fear of communism with its standardization of everything. We, however, must encourage the unknown genius, the small manufacturer, and the little specialty store "around the corner."

Religion And Investments

It seems too bad that Protestantism should be divided into 250 denominations. I have great respect for the Holy Catholic Church. I often wish there were some way that the Roman Church and these 250 Protestant denominations could be combined. On the other hand, if religion is largely a matter of spirit and emotions, the next great horizon may be the study and harnessing of these spiritual powers which are now so divided. I have learned that the world is ruled by feelings rather than by figures; and that we have not given proper consideration to the different feelings of different people.

I admire the work the president of the New York Stock Exchange is doing to popularize investments. If, however, his idea is carried too far, it may result in a great stock market panic. Too many people—for instance — are being advised to invest in the standardized "blue chips." Investments cannot safely be standardized. An investor should make purchases according to his age, responsibilities, temperament and the kind of work in which he is engaged. He needs an investment counselor to advise him about this. People are different, and free enterprise will succeed only as this difference is recognized in every field.

Try And Stop Me!

By Bennett Cerf

"For Brooklyn: Don Newcombe pitching, Roy Campanella catching" is an electrifying announcement that proclaims the appearance of one of the greatest batteries in major league baseball annals. These two men are the nucleus of a championship team in themselves.

It is Campanella who paces his off-field roommate and calls for the various pitches in Newk's repertoire. When Don occasionally shrugs off Roy's signal and delivers a change-up instead of his zingy fastball, Campy usually takes off his mask, strolls out to the mound and says reproachfully, "What's the idea of giving me the local when I call for the express?" Newcombe apologizes — and the game goes on.

How much does Campanella enjoy his arduous job of catching in the big leagues? He told one reporter: "Everything baseball has done for me is good and nothing is bad. The day they take that Dodger uniform off me, they'll have to rip it off—and when they do they can bury me."

Hyndman (Pa.) eked out an 8-7 decision over Wellersburg and Barrelville belted Flintstone's Farmers to the tune of 14-2 as the Pen-Mar Baseball League launched its eighth consecutive season yesterday in games at Zihlman, Centerville, Wellersburg and Flintstone.

Score Seven In First
A 7-run first inning by Zihlman proved too much for the Grantsville Sluggers to overcome as Manager Ray Anderson's kick kicked off the lid with a decisive victory over the 1955 pennant and playoff winners.

Zihlman racked up 11 hits, including a double and two singles by Tommy Dunn, a pair of two-baggers by Curtis Johnson and two one-base knocks by Shortstop Dale Williams.

Jack Brodie, Zihlman southpaw, pitched six innings, yielded eight hits, fanned six and gave way to Ronnie Rice with Grantsville trailing 10-6. Rice twirled hitless and runless ball in the last three frames and whiffed three. Bill Haberlein, the first of three Grantsville pitchers, was charged with the loss.

Niles Harper and Woody Woodson accounted for half of the Sluggers' eight safeties. One of Harper's hits was a homer with a teammate aboard in the third frame.

Hite's Club Triumphs
Manager Frank Hite's Centerville aggregation, which replaced Eckhart as the only new team in the circuit this season, lapped the offerings of two Mt. Savage pitchers for ten safeties and coasted to an easy inaugural win.

Glenn Deremer hurled the first seven innings, fanned five, walked one and got credit for the win. Bob See pitched the last two stanzas. Bobby Blank was tagged with the defeat. He was relieved by Danny Cullen in the fourth. The Mt. Savage pair issued a total of 10 bases on balls and struck out six.

Mel Neer rapped a three-run double during a 6-run outburst by the Pennsylvanians in the 4th. Gary Reeder and Homer Rose also smacked two-baggers, the former accounting for two runs. Two of the four hits yielded by Deremer and See was credited to Carter who connected for a double a three-bagger. Glenitis Street had three hits and Reeder and Homer Rose two each for Centerville.

Hyndman Cops Close One
Manager Lloyd Keller's Hyndman tossers, although out 12-7, squeezed out a close decision over Wellersburg in the closest of the four opening day contests.

Jim Leydig went the route for the Bedford counties while Russ Warnick, Frank Ritter and Glenn Ford divided the pitching chores with the former being charged with the loss.

Andy Felker was the game's hitting star with two doubles and two singles in as many official trips. Leydig lapped a tripler and single to spark the winners.

A Rousing Finish
Barrelville and Flintstone played five scoreless innings then the roof fell in on the Farmers when Manager Raymond "Buck" Fiorita's team scored 14 runs in the last four innings to turn the game into a rout: The score was 3-2 in favor of Barrelville going into the eighth when the visitors rallied for seven runs and added four more tallies in the ninth.

Flintstone pitchers, Marshall and Jim Fletcher and Grayson Mallow yielded 10 hits and issued 11 bases on balls. Lefty Lou Hite was the winning pitcher. He worked six innings and Bob Lookabaugh was the finisher. The Barrelville pair fanned seven and walked nine. Dwight Morris's two-bagger was among the Farmers' four blows.

Gene Littler Cops $10,000

Wins At Las Vegas
2nd Straight Year

LAS VEGAS, Nev., April 29 (AP)—Gene Littler hit a second $10,000 golfing jackpot today when he won the $38,500 Tournament of Champions in a rousing last round duel with Cary Middlecoff.

Littler, winning this event for the second straight year, fired a one under par 71 for a 72-hole score of 281. Four strokes back Middlecoff, after a gallant but losing struggle to catch and pass his 25-year-old rival from California.

Middlecoff fashioned a 70 for a total of 285 and $4,000 prize money. Veteran Lloyd Mangrum slipped into third place, worth $2,200, with a last round 69 that gave him 288 as the erstwhile threat, young Gardner Dickinson Jr., helped himself to a whopping eight on the 15th hole and wound up down the line.

The victory was a second, too, for singer Frankie Laine. He bought Littler in the legal auction for $16,500, and in the reward from the total pool of the affair, $192,000, Laine won $69,120. Last year the win was worth $72,900. Ten per cent of the total pool goes to the Damon Runyan Cancer Fund.

"Now aren't you glad I made you bring your overcoat?"

Television And Radio

by John Crosby

Blood And Greasepaint

I was lured to watch "Sheena, Queen of the Jungle" (played by Irish McCalla) by some friends who have been widely advertising this show as the worst on television, a sweeping claim. After watching it, I'm still loath to commit myself beyond saying that when the decision is made on the worst show on the air this will be well up among the finalists.

Sheena, in case you've never had the misfortune to witness her, is a six-foot blonde girl who swings through the trees of Kenya in Africa dressed in a leopard skin leotard, righting wrongs, undoing villainy, and uttering lines like "Big Bwana no like bad man." In short, a sort of female Tarzan. She is accompanied everywhere by a chimpanzee named Chim to whom she talks chimpanzee talk, easily the most intelligent dialogue in the show.

Whenever Sheena gets into water that is too hot for even her six-foot frame, Chim rushes to the rescue just like Rin Tin Tin. There is hardly an actor in Hollywood who hasn't been rescued at some time or other by some beast or other—Trigger, Lassie, Champion—but it has been the custom to cast the ape family in the role of villain. When I was a boy, the apes were always abducting blonde girls for reasons of lechery. Apes were the bad guys and I ringingly protest this upsetting of the established order.

As a matter of fact, Sheena upsets a lot of the old traditions. In the first place, Sheena, the heroine, is a girl instead of a boy and frequently even the villains, a traditional male role, are girls, too. For instance on the last one I saw, the villainess was a blonde babe named Aunt Diane who was trying to exterminate her brother-in-law and his small son in order to take over his ranch.

First, she leads the boy into the woods, and abandons him to be eaten by the lions. Incidentally, that's a lovely little sequence to show to the small tots, whom this show is designed for, just before bedtime. Fortunately, at least in the New York area, not many small tots watch it because it's up against Disneyland. Next, Aunt Diane stirs up a native revolt and the natives come hurtling down on the ranch brandishing their spears. Sheena and Chim handle both situations nicely.

As you can see, it's fine blood-thirsty stuff, just right for your little ones. Sheena strides — or swings—her way through all this wearing a sort of permanent, built-in scowl which is as far along as she has got in the art of acting. Actually, all the acting—except that of Chim who is a talented little beastie is pretty dreadful.

Even the press agents who handle the program have been forced to the conclusion that Sheena is something less than great art and the tone of their press agency has been one of not-very-gentle mockery. Said one press release: "The parents who have been bemoaning their small fry racing around the house brandishing pistols and shouting: 'Bang, you're dead,' can take heart. The latest fad among the poppets, inspired by 'Sheena, Queen of the Jungle,' is to advance quietly on the enemy and skewer him with a spear like an Armenian chef fixing a shishkebab." Oh, it's a thoroughly wholesome show, all right. You may get murdered in your bed by your little ones after they see it—but it'll be done cleanly and, above all, quietly.

In a moment of inspiration, another press agent got an animal authority, Tom Cochran, to say that Chim was being mistreated in the series. "I think the things that chimpanzee is forced to do constitute cruelty to animals," he said. "Those jungle scenes are too harrowing to subject a chimpanzee to. They're all right for actors but an animal shouldn't be forced into such situations."

Says the press agent of this canard: "Sheena hasn't been so mad since the time she was tied to a palm tree and left to be devoured by white ants."

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

The bidding:

South West North East

3NT Pass Pass Pass

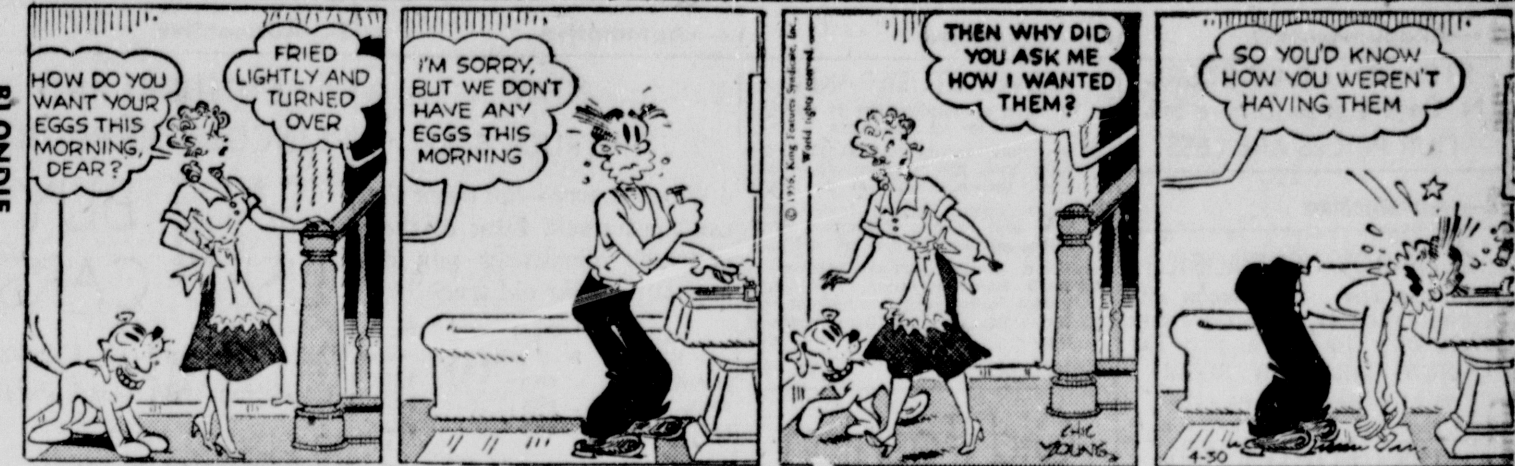

Among the most precise and descriptive opening bids in bridge are those of one, two or three notrump. The opener can substantially represent his high cards, distribution and scattered strength all in one motion. Where an opening bid of one in a suit may have very wide variations both in high cards and distribution, the area of strength and distribution becomes largely compressed within narrow bounds when the opening bid is some number of notrump. Thus the opening bid of three notrump signifies high card strength between 25 and 27 points, distribution that is usually 4-3-3-3 or 4-4-3-2, and stoppers or high cards in all four suits. (In counting the high card points, the Ace is valued at 4 points, K-3, Q-2, J-1.)

In today's hand we can note how well the opening three notrump bid reflects a true picture of the real nature of the hand, whereas an opening one or two club bid would not at once convey to partner the overwhelming power and balanced distribution which in actuality exist. Of course the clearcut message is wasted in the present case, since North with this particular hand has no interest in proceeding further.

With proper care the declarer will have no trouble romping home with nine tricks. The opening plays of the king and queen of diamonds are ducked by South, but declarer should win the third round of diamonds. With seven sure tricks in his own hand, and probably an eighth in clubs, the declarer has to find a ninth winner.

This can be accomplished by cashing four clubs, the two high spades, and then exiting with a diamond. Although this plan of play conceals to West without a struggle his four diamond tricks, it has the ultimate effect of compelling him to lead a spade (if he has one) to dummy's queen, or a heart into the declarer's AQ, either of which gives South the contract. If, after running his clubs and spades, the declarer attempts a low heart to dummy's jack in an effort to gain the ninth trick, West can defeat the contract by going up with the king and taking his diamonds.

Banner Crowds Slated Today As Sales End

Stores To Be Open Until 9 O'Clock

Banner crowds and sales are expected by local merchants today as the 1956 Old Fashioned Bargain Days come to a close. Stores will remain open until 9 p. m. today and a number of stores are planning to offer special bargains as the day advances. The sales force, dressed in Gay Nineties costumes, will lend a festive air to the stores, and most stores plan to continue the street sales which have enlivened the street scenes of the Queen City since the sales got under way Friday. The climax of the 1956 sales will come tonight at 8 o'clock with the livestock drawing at Baltimore and Centre streets. You won't have to lead it away, however, since the stock shown in Saturday's parade will be dressed and ready for delivery to the lucky winners. Sales Are Heavy Officials report that all stores here reported sales heavy Friday and Saturday, and that sales forces are ready for even greater sales today. Most of the Tri-State area shoppers who thronged to Cumberland Saturday to take advantage of the sales stayed on to watch the Old Fashioned Bargain Days parade. Many thousands of people jammed the streets to watch the spectacle which featured musical organizations of the area, floats and costumed marchers and exhibits. Of the float entries, the Sears and S. T. Little were judged outstanding. Prizes totaling $100 were awarded to costumed individuals and couples who took part. It was really parade weather, with the temperature at an unofficial 92. The chief sufferers were the clerks dressed in somewhat voluminous Gay Nineties dress, 600 Hear Concert At least 600 residents of the area turned up yesterday afternoon at Constitution Park to enjoy the Gay Nineties concert presented by the Cumberland Municipal Concert Band. The event was sponsored by the Retail Merchants Association of the Chamber of Commerce, sponsor of the special sales days. Many of the concert-goers were dressed in old fashioned costumes. Fine, if somewhat threatening weather brought another 600 or so persons to other sections of the park. It was good picnic weather—an official 87 at 4 p. m., and many of the picnic tables were in use.

Halt Brush Fire

South End Fire Company extinguished a brush fire in an open field on New Hampshire Avenue late yesterday afternoon. There was no damage.

Today's Sermonette

Today's sermonette is a digest of the sermon preached yesterday at First Presbyterian Church by the pastor, Rev. Maurice D. Robertson. The sermon digests are being prepared through the cooperation of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

A Chapel In The Soul

By REV. MAURICE D. ROBERTSON

You and I are always tempted to explain our deficiencies and lack of character by pointing an accusing finger at our early or present environment and associations. We explain our failures in the same manner, saying, "In the business he's in, with the kind of people he deals with, how could he be anything else but what he is?" We speak as though this was the whole story. But is our environment the real factor we so often consider it in the making and molding of our lives? Is it the real story? Have not some of the finest and noblest leaders of people, industry and the professions come from the squalid and sordid neighborhoods of our world? Obviously there must be a forming agent other than environment.

Claude Bernard, one of the outstanding medical philosophers of the last century, once wrote about man's "Internal Environment." By that he meant that man has a built-in, self-contained system within, like an electric refrigerator, unaffected by most external changes. Thus a man can walk miles in sub-zero temperature and at the end his bodily internal temperature is still about 98 degrees, the same as it would be if he were plowing a field with the thermometer at 95 degrees.

Is it not equally true that there is also possible a built-in spiritual "Internal Environment," a chapel, a citadel in the soul of a man that cannot be overthrown or taken by assault from the outside. You and I can, through the cultivation of our spirits, discipline our moods and our characters so that we become the master of them instead of letting our moods and environments master us.

Do you know this charming prayer? "We thank Thee for this place in which we dwell; for the peace accorded to us this day; for the hope with which we expect the morrow; for the work, the food, the bright skies that make our lives delightful. Give us courage and gaiety and the quiet mind. Amen."

That prayer reveals the inner environment of its author as one who had a buoyant, hopeful, positive mood as one of his major characteristics. But never assume that that inner buoyant calm came easily as a natural result of environment, good health, prosperity and little friction from difficulties. The author of that prayer was the victim for most of his life of suspicion, pettiness and unhappiness. You can't be taken in by the shallow idea that we can't help our moods and the molding of our characters in life, when once you know the life of Robert Louis Stevenson. We know that such a radiantly positive spirit comes at a cost of discipline, a struggle each hour to identify his life with the right moods. He might well have turned into a crotchety old pessimist if his circumstances and environment had been allowed to form his life. He leaves us a bright heritage, as can you and I if we like him, will pay the cost daily required for the building of a serene inner environment, a chapel in our souls.

To build up this inner environment, this chapel in the soul of a man, is one of the basic purposes of the Christian faith. The Christian faith is not meant to be a disaster religion, a fire engine to be called in to put out sin's blaze. Its role is stronger by far as prevention. Christian faith is not so much meant to bring the prodigal back to his father's house as to keep the son at home in the first place through the building of an inner environment that can overcome the differences, difficulties and dissensions of life.

If you and I are not going to be victims of our external environments, tossed about by every stray wind and wave of opinion, taking our cues from the last speaker, moved by every momentary craze, influenced by each new style or popular fad, shaped by the crowd, then we must build an inner environment in our souls. There must be a shrine or chapel there from which we draw our sustenance and strength, a little place of quietness mid all the traffic of life, a place of rest and recreation amid the struggles and tensions of the day.

There is no substitute for the image of God in Jesus Christ indelibly stamped in the soul of a man. It involves the alignment of our wills with the will of God in Jesus Christ. But as Peter found, we need more than will power or a conversion of our minds. The conversion of our wills to Christ must be followed by a cultivation of our imagination, our reason and our tastes.

Company 'C' Opens Drive For Members

Seeks Enlistments For Basic Training

A pre-camp recruiting campaign is being conducted by Company C, 115th Regiment, Maryland National Guard, according to Capt. Eugene Light, commanding officer. The goal of the campaign is to recruit 50 members to take the six months of basic training with the active Army provided by the Reserve Forces Act of 1955.

A man who enlists in the National Guard before he is 18½ will be deferred from induction into Federal service until he is 28, so long as he performs satisfactory Guard service, and he is not required to take active duty training. He may volunteer, however, for the six months of basic training and reduce the time he must serve in the National Guard from "until age 28" to a total of eight years. This means, Capt. Light explained, that a man who enlists when he is 17 can finish his period of reserve military service when he is 25, chopping three years from his years of military obligation. Those interested were urged to visit the National Guard Armory here any Wednesday night or to contact Capt. Light or Lt. Norman Messman by telephone.

Flag Display Is Urged For Loyalty Day

Henry Hart Post, 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars, through its special committee named for the purpose, is calling attention to the nation wide observance of Loyalty Day tomorrow, May 1.

Loyalty Day, with the theme "Loyalty Means Liberty," is the VFW answer to the Communist May Day. Vernon Crable, chairman of the VFW committee, said he has been assisted by David Rinker Jr., Roy Yutzy and Paul Freeland in calling attention to Loyalty Day, and urging merchants and other residents to display flags.

The post also named an honorary committee to call attention to Loyalty Day, including Chief Judge George Henderson, chairman; Sheriff Edward R. Muir, co-chairman; and members, Mayor Roy W. Eves, City Commissioners William Buchholz, William V. Keegan, John J. Long and William R. Edwards, along with city solicitor, Thomas B. Finan. The mayor and council last week, issued a special proclamation, calling on the citizens to remember Loyalty Day, display flags and take time to remember the heritage of liberty and the price for it.

1,400 Holy Name Members Attend Meeting Here

Archbishop Keough Principal Speaker

Some 1,400 members of Holy Name societies in 84 Maryland parishes attended the 42nd annual Archdiocesan Union of the Holy Name here yesterday at St. Mary's Church Hall.

Besides the members, 300 women came for the all-day convention. About a hundred of the members' wives were taken on a tour of Allegany County by members of Western Maryland Section. Most Rev. Francis P. Keough, Archbishop of Baltimore, was the principal speaker. He outlined the Catholic Charities Fund Appeal, which starts throughout the Baltimore Archdiocese next Sunday.

Archbishop Keough said he hopes to raise enough money to build a children's village to replace the seven antiquated orphanages now operating in the archdiocese. He said he would like to place the 1,078 children housed in the orphanages in private homes, but there aren't enough private homes to go around.

The archbishop also said the construction of new high schools would have to await the completion of more urgent projects, such as the children's village and needed repairs to St. Joseph's and Mercy hospitals in Baltimore.

Very Rev. Clement J. Buckley, C. P., rector of St. Joseph Passionist Monastery in Baltimore, said changing times have brought about "a startling decline in Christian morality."

He added that the Legion of Decency (which opposes indecency in movies and publications) is being violated "without much opposition from us." The nation, he said, has sunk to a new low "when a convicted perjurer is asked to speak at one of our leading universities." His talk followed a report by Paul Lane, chairman of the Holy Name's "Operation Decency."

Rev. Maurice J. Wolfe, reported that the Junior Holy Name in Maryland now has a membership of 10,270, with average monthly attendance at Communion at 3,270. The members re-elected James McDonnell of Baltimore as archdiocesan president, and gave Joseph Lalley, treasurer for the past four years, a traveling bag in recognition of his service.

Canal Plans Outlined By Douglas

HARPER'S FERRY, W. Va., April 29 (AP)—Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas said last night the planning stage is under way for the development of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal and Potomac River valley as a national park.

Douglas, who led a 184-mile hike two years ago to promote the land along the canal as a recreational area and game refuge, said $100,000 appropriated by the National Park Service should enable actual work to begin on the project this summer.

He spoke at the second annual reunion of the hikers. About 20 of those who walked from Cumberland, Md., to Washington, D.C., in March, 1954, attended the meeting along with 20 invited guests.

Dr. Benjamin Thompson, chief of community relations of the National Park Service, also spoke to the group. He said the federal agency had concluded that no road would be built along the canal or tow path. Existing roads will be used where possible to provide scenic drives, he said, and some tow paths will be used for bicycling.

Rep. Hyde (R-Md) called for an intensive drive to clean up the Potomac and said the $30,000 annual sum provided by the Interstate Potomac River Commission for that purpose is not enough. The 1954 canal hike was suggested by Douglas to show off the "natural beauties" of the area after Sen. Beall (R-Md) had urged legislation to build a parkway along the canal to attract more business to the area.

Two editorial writers for the Washington Post and Times Herald who backed the parkway plan, accepted Douglas' challenge to make the hike. As part of the reunion, the hikers spent Saturday night camping at Fort Frederick, Md., and took a short hike before the meeting. Another hike and reunion is scheduled next year, Douglas said, but the site has not yet been selected.

VFW Marble Club To Meet Tonight

Senate Candidates — 1

3-Time Loser, Mahoney Feels This Is His Year

(This is the first in a series of profiles on Maryland candidates for the Democratic nomination in the U. S. Senate.)

By LOUIS PANOS

BALTIMORE, April 29 (AP) — After six years of being on the outside looking in, George P. Mahoney feels this is his year in Maryland politics.

The 54-year-old Baltimore paving contractor says he is confident he will win the Democratic senatorial nomination May 7.

If he does, the victory will provide a smashing climax to a political career which has found him, for the most part, like a hungry wolf with his nose pressed against a restaurant window.

"I've worn out a lot of shoes in this campaign," he tells his rally audiences, "because I know you're the boss and you're the people I want to meet."

The reference to worn shoes is as appropriate now as it was in his 1950 campaign for governor, his 1952 bid for a Senate seat, and his 1954 return try for the governorship.

Uses Personal Approach

On the campaign trail the Mahoney of 1956 is still the fast-traveling, plain-talking Mahoney of 1950. His chief stock in trade is still the face-to-face meeting with as many voters as possible. He still regards the self-introduction and eager hand-shake as indispensable. He still prefers the intimate conference to the more formal platform speech. He still directs his plea for votes to what he calls the "little man." And he still battles what he calls the "big interests."

But in two notable respects the Mahoney campaign of 1956 differs sharply from the Mahoney campaigns of 1950, 1952 and 1954.

One difference is the amount of organized strength with which he launched his bid this time.

The other is the comparatively indifferent attitude he has assumed toward his major opponent, Millard E. Tydings, at least up to this point in the campaign.

The Mahoney camp explains that the first difference is the reason for the second. "I've got nothing against Tydings," said Mahoney, "but he got into this thing too late, and I know I'm going to win it."

As late as 1954, the official Mahoney organization did not even include a campaign manager for seven of the State's 23 counties. Two years later he lists not only a manager for every county and Baltimore City legislative district, but also support from at least a majority of members on 15 county central committees. There were 17 such endorsements, but enough switched their allegiance in Frederick and Cecil counties to give Tydings at least a majority of committee members there.

Of the remaining 13 counties where Mahoney still claims backing by the committees, six are counties in which he did not have an official campaign manager in 1954. These are Anne Arundel, Somerset, Washington, Wicomico, Worcester and Baltimore County.

In mentioning his organized strength, Mahoney headquarters operatives declare this is in addition to his previous support among the rank and file voters. The rank-and-file vote in previous campaigns, when most Statewide party figures opposed him, was enough to give Mahoney more popular votes than his opponents in 1950 and 1952 and only about 4,000 less than his rival in 1954, they contend.

Although he has announced no formal platform as such, Mahoney has expressed these views on what he considers the issues in his campaign:

Foreign policy—"We have left the initiative in the hands of the aggressors; we have failed to demonstrate to the great mass of neutral peoples that our principles and philosophy—not just our dollar aid—offer them the best hope of a free and prosperous future."

Flood Control Worker Praised For Heroism

Citation Sought For Paul Thompson

The heroism of a worker on the Cumberland-Ridgeley flood protection program has been cited to the Washington district of the Corps of Engineers.

Rex E. Dester, resident engineer for the Corps of Engineers, said he has brought the action of Paul Thompson an employee of the E. J. Albrecht Company district engineer's attention, and recommended that Thompson be commended for his action.

Thompson was operating a big Euclid earth mover near the banks of the Potomac River last Wednesday when William Earl Arble, 58, ended his life by jumping from the Cumberland-Ridgeley bridge.

Attracted to the scene by youngsters yelling that a man had jumped from the span, Thompson ran to the river bank, peeled off his heavy clothes and pulled the victim from the cold waters of the stilling basin of the Industrial Dam.

Although almost exhausted from the rescue, he immediately began to apply artificial respiration until police took over.

Officials report the water was at least 15 feet deep in the stilling basin at the time of the rescue attempt, and that the whirlpool action of the basin—built to slow up the water—made the rescue attempt, both difficult and hazardous.

Have Safety Programs

When the new river channel is completed the water level will rise and the swirling action in the basin virtually cease. Dexter said Thompson's action and presence of mind indicated that the safety programs of the Corps of Engineers and of the Albrecht firm are paying off.

The Corps of Engineers, he said, has prepared a safety manual for the use of its contractors. The Chicago firm has its own safety program which supplements the Army Engineers program here. Thompson, who came here in December from Chillicothe, Ohio, lives in a trailer at the LaVale Motor Court.

Mahoney Group Schedules Rallies

As the primary election contest goes into its final week, James E. Kenney, Westernport, county chairman of the Mahoney for US Senate campaign, has announced a schedule of a number of workers' rallies.

The general campaign committee will meet tonight at 8 o'clock at headquarters in the Algonquin Hotel.

Tomorrow night a rally will be held at 8 p. m. in St. Michael's hall, Frostburg.

Wednesday night at 8 p. m. workers and Mahoney supporters will meet at the home of Old Rail Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars. On Thursday at 8 p. m. a meeting will be held in the Legion Home at Lonaconing.

Friday, a rally for workers in the Cumberland area will be held in the Algonquin Hotel, also at 8 p. m. At 2 p. m. Sunday a rally for workers is scheduled in Westernport.

Eagles Plan Annual Mother's Day Observance

Program Set For Sunday, May 13

Cumberland Aerie 245, Fraternal Order of Eagles, will hold its annual Mother's Day program on Sunday, May 13, at 2 p. m. at the Aerie home.

Herman L. Myers, Aerie secretary, said the principal address will be given by Peter J. Carpent, local attorney and member of Cresaptown Aerie 2883.

Also on the program will be the initiation of a class of new members. The ceremony will be conducted by the Aerie officers, and will be headed by Robert E. Danner, worthy president.

The first Mother's Day observance was held in 1904, by the Indianapolis, Indiana, Aerie. The late Frank E. Hering, a professor at the University of Notre Dame, gave the main address at the memorial program. Hering later became national president of the Eagles and editor of the Eagles Magazine.

On February 7, 1904, at English's Opera House, Hering made the first public plea for a Mother's Day. He urged that a day be set aside as a tribute to mothers and motherhood.

Other Eagles lodges began to follow the Indianapolis group and hold services for Mother's Day, and in 1911, the Kansas City Aerie held the first program dedicated entirely to mothers. The next year—two years before Congress provided for a national Mother's Day observance—the Grand Aerie passed a statute calling for the observance of Mother's Day annually by every Eagles lodge.

The local Aerie, with a membership of more than 1,900 is the largest fraternal organization in this area.

Flower Show Opens Today

Cumberland's annual spring flower show will be held today and tomorrow in the Eagles Home, North Mechanic Street. Entries were made yesterday afternoon and the huge auditorium soon began taking on the appearance of a huge flower garden.

Entries will be received today from 8:30 a. m. until noon with judging to start at noon, according to Mrs. George Henderson, general chairman.

The show is open to the public from 4 p. m. to 9 p. m. today and from noon until 9 p. m. tomorrow. Mrs. William H. Ryan and Mrs. T. Donald Shires are in charge of the staging committee. The cool weather of the past several days retarded the growth of many home gardens, but warmer weather for a few days last week helped them spring forth, and the show is assured an abundance of fresh blooms and excellent exhibits.

Entries are to be judged in several classes and divisions with special awards for men, women and children who enter winners from their own gardens.

County PTA Unit Will Meet Tonight

The Allegany County Council of Parent Teacher Associations will hold its fourth meeting tonight at Hammond Street School in Westermport, according to Mrs. Lester McGill, county president.

At the meeting, called for 8 p. m. (EDT) newly elected officers will be installed and plans for the next workshop and summer conference will be discussed. Miss Sally Fitzwater has prepared a special music program for this last meeting of the school year.

1902 Model Horseless Carriage

This 1902 model Sears automobile was one of the many exhibits used by local merchants during the Old Fashioned Bargain Days which ended tonight. Owned by Earl Leap, Hyndman, Pa., it was exhibited by the local Sears store. Many antique cars were entered in the big parade held here Saturday night, including a Model T Ford entered and driven by Del. Lester B. Reed. Thousands of residents of the Tri-State area thronged downtown streets to witness the parade.
